

For Immediate Release

Contact: Jen Donovan
Public Information Officer
Marketing Department
(302)857-1609

March 27, 2008

Terry Campus Opens Registration for Youth Summer Camps

DOVER- Are you worried your kids will spend another summer just sitting in front of the television or playing video games? Exercise their minds and bodies by enrolling them in Youth Summer Camps at Delaware Technical & Community College, Terry Campus.

Registration is now underway.

Kids ages 6 to 16 can get excited about 41 camps that will cater to a variety of interests including Adventure, Arts, Sports & Fitness and IQ-Builder categories. And parents can get excited that most of the camps are educational.

Young teenagers ages 13-16 can register for career-preparation and specialized entertainment camps such as "Actor's Workshop," "Drum Camp," and "Careers in Television Production."

Your child's summer will be stimulating because 20 of the camps offered are new for 2008. Participants of the new "NASCAR® Camp" will explore the excitement of racing, discuss favorite drivers and examine the technology of racecars, motors and tracks. In "Design Camp" kids will learn about fashion, architectural and interior design through hands-on activities.

Past camp favorites such as “Cookin’ Kids” and “Rockin’ Rockets” return this year to teach kids about food and cooking in the Terry Campus’s Culinary Arts full-functioning professional kitchen and rocket science. Sports camps such as soccer, softball, tennis and lacrosse are also favorites.

Participants enroll in camps for one week, three hours a day or for the whole day. Many campers enjoy the experience so much that they enroll for multiple camps. Child care is offered before and after scheduled sessions for camp participants.

Youth Summer Camps are a part of the Corporate and Community Programs Division at Delaware Tech.

The cost for all camps is $79 per week for half day camps and $158 per week for the full day.

Camps are listed with descriptions, schedules and registration information at www.dtcc.edu/terry/camps and in the Terry Campus Summer Corporate and Community Programs catalog. Please call 302-857-1400 for additional information and to register.